Southwestern Health Resources
Southwestern Health is a clinically integrated network, formed in 2016, that brings together UT Southwestern Medical Center and Texas Health Resources to provide increased access to a full spectrum of health care services — from primary prevention to specialized care — for the people of North Texas. Southwestern Health is made up of a 31-facility hospital network, as well as an expansive network of physicians and caregivers (UT Southwestern faculty, Texas Health Physicians Group (THPG) and community).

Health plan
In 2016, Texas Health and Aetna created a jointly-owned health plan company, the first of its kind in North Texas, that focuses on improving quality, affordability and the overall consumer experience. By combining Texas Health’s high-quality providers and investment in population health management with Aetna’s health plan expertise, care management capabilities and analytical insights, employers and consumers in North Texas benefit from more affordable, high-quality and better-coordinated care.

Foundation
The Texas Health Resources Foundation strives to enhance quality patient care by joining with committed community supporters to sustain the long-term fiscal viability of Texas Health Resources.
Accountable care organizations
The Southwestern Health Resources Accountable Care Network (ACN) ACO manages over 850,000 lives in North Texas and nearly 100,000 Medicare beneficiaries in North Texas and the fourth largest in the nation. In 2019, the ACN saved more than $52 million, placing it at the top of over 40 organizations participating in the NGACO program. Since joining NGACO in 2017, the ACN has saved nearly $120 million and has been ranked #1 all three years.
